MEMORANDUM OPINION^{FN1}

^{FN1}. This Memorandum Opinion constitutes the findings of fact and conclusions of law required by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7052, made applicable to contested matters by Bankruptcy Rule 9014.KEVIN GROSS, United States Bankruptcy Judge.

*1 The matter before the Court is the Motion of Industria Mexicana del Aluminio, S.A. de C.V. for Allowance and Immediate Payment of Its Section 503(b)(9) Administrative Expense Claim (“the Motion”) [D.I. 365]. The Court will deny the Motion, as set forth below.

I. Background

On April 10, 2006, the debtors, Global Home Products, LLC, et al. (“Debtors”),^{FN2} filed individual voluntary petitions for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code.^{FN3} The Court ordered the cases to be jointly administered [D.I. 39]. Debtors are currently operating and managing their businesses as Debtors in Possession pursuant to §§ 1107 and 1108. On April 27, 2006, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors was appointed by the United States Trustee.

^{FN2}. Debtors comprise the following entities: Global Home Products LLC; GHP Holding Company LLC; GHP Operating Company LLC; Anchor Hocking Acquisition Inc.; AH Acquisition Puerto Rico, Inc.; Anchor Hocking Consumer Glass Corporation; Anchor Hocking CG Operating Company LLC; Anchor Hocking Operating Company LLC; Burnes Acquisition Inc.; Intercraft Company; Burnes Puerto Rico, Inc.; Picture LLC; Burnes Operating Company LLC; Mirro Acquisition Inc.; Mirro Puerto Rico, Inc.; and Mirro Operating Company LLC.

^{FN3.11 U.S.C. §§ 101 et seq.} Hereinafter, references to statutory provisions by section number only are to provisions of the Bankruptcy Code, unless the context requires otherwise.

Debtors are a leading designer, marketer and manufacturer of well known, branded consumer and speciality products sold to retail and hospitality customers and to original equipment manufacturers. As of the Petition Date, Debtors operated three primary business divisions through its Anchor Hocking businesses (“Anchor Hocking”), WearEver businesses (“WearEver”), and Burnes Group businesses (the “Burnes Group”). Anchor Hocking produces beverageware, cookware, bakeware, home décor items, and glass components for commercial customers. Anchor Hocking's glassware products cross all price points through retail, specialty, business-to business, and hospitality channels. WearEver produces metal bakeware, cookware and accessories and is recognized as a leading marketer and manufacturer of multi-branded metal cookware and bakeware products and accessories. WearEver sold metal cookware, bakeware and related accessories throughout North America, principally in the opening and mid-tier price points through retail channels. The Burnes Group designed and sold ready-made picture frames, photo albums, scrapbooks and related home accessories.

In the course of these cases, Debtors conducted separate auctions to effectuate the sales of the Burnes

(Cite as: Not Reported in B.R.)

Group and the WearEver businesses. The Court entered orders approving the sales of the businesses on May 23, 2006 and August 14, 2006, respectively [D.I. 353 and D.I. 664].

Both before and after the Petition Date, Debtors held a senior secured revolving line of credit with Wachovia Bank, N.A. (“Wachovia”) pursuant to the June 22, 2004 Loan Agreement. At the commencement of these cases, Debtors owed Wachovia approximately $115 million which was secured by a lien on substantially all of Debtors' assets, including all of Debtors' stock in their domestic subsidiaries, and 65% of Debtors' stock in their foreign subsidiaries. Additionally, Debtors maintained a junior secured term loan and revolving line of credit with Madeline, LLC (“Madeline”) pursuant to executing a Financing Agreement on April 13, 2004. Debtors owed Madeline approximately $200 million and the loan was secured by a lien on substantially all of Debtors' assets. The Court entered both interim and final orders authorizing Debtors to obtain post-petition financing from Wachovia, as the DIP Lender, and to use Madeline's cash collateral. On May 4, 2006, the Court entered the final order on the DIP Loan Motion (the “Final Financing Order”) [D.I. 184], and a final order authorizing Debtors to use cash collateral [D.I. 185]. The Final Financing Order approved a ratification and Amendment Agreement dated April 1, 2006, by and among Debtors, Wachovia and others. Subsequently, and after the Court took the Motion under submission, the Court extended the DIP financing and use of cash collateral through approving an amendment to the Ratification Agreement. (Order (A) Authorizing Debtors to Obtain Interim Post-Petition Financing and Grant Security Interests and Superpriority Administrative Expense Status (B) Modifying the Automatic Stay Authorizing Debtors to Enter Into Agreements with Wachovia Bank, National Association, as Agent and Lenders and (D) Scheduling a Final Hearing [D.I. 45])

*2 Industria Mexicana del Aluminio, S.A. de C.V. (“IMASA”) is a creditor and a party in interest in Debtors' bankruptcy. In the twenty days immediately preceding the Petition Date, Debtors purchased approximately 122,986 pounds of aluminum from IMASA in the ordinary course of Debtors' business.

IMASA filed its Motion for Allowance and Immediate Payment of Its Section 503(b)(9) Administrative Expense Claim (the “Motion”) on May 25, 2006. IMASA has requested allowance of its claims for the aluminum as an administrative expense claim in the amount of the full value of the goods and that Debtors make payment within three business days of the Court's entry of an order granting the Motion. Debtors filed an objection to the Motion on May 23, 2006, on the grounds that IMASA did not carry its burden of proving the value of such goods or that it is entitled to allowance or payment of such claim [D.I. 452]. Wachovia filed a limited objection to the Motion on June 23, 2006 [D.I. 457], alleging that without Wachovia's consent, Debtors are not authorized to make payments under the Final Financing Order or the Financing Agreement. Wachovia has not consented to such payments.

The Motion was set for hearing on August 8, 2006. At the hearing, the parties announced that they had resolved the issue regarding the value of the aluminum. The Court subsequently entered an agreed upon order allowing IMASA's claim as an administrative expense in the amount of $206,322.07 [D.I. 704]. The issue that remains for decision is the timing of payment of the allowed administrative expense.

II. Jurisdiction

This is a core proceeding which invests the Court with jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157\(b\)\(2\)\(A\), \(B\), and \(O\).

III. Parties Contentions

According to IMASA, Debtors used the aluminum to manufacture their line of cookware, bakeware, and accessories, which generated significant post-petition revenues for Debtors. IMASA argues in support of its Motion that it would be inequitable to delay the payment of the administrative expense claim in light of the administrative expense priority afforded to it by the recent amendments to the Bankruptcy Code.^{FN4} Additionally, IMASA asserts that it is entitled to adequate protection of its interest in cash collateral.

FN4. The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005, S. 256, Pub.L.No. 109-8, 119 Stat. 23 \(2005\) (the “2005 Act”) became law on October 17, 2005. The 2005 Act governs these cases.

In opposition to the Motion, Debtors contend that the Final Financing Order prohibits the payment of the claims or expenses not otherwise authorized under the DIP financing agreements or the DIP budget. Paragraph 1.2 of the Final Financing Order prohibits Debtors' use of loan proceeds for payment of claims not provided for in the financing agreements and budget without the Court's approval. Section 5.2 of the Ratification Agreement also restricts Debtors' use of DIP Financing proceeds to pay administrative claims. Debtors are authorized to pay only administrative claims that are directly attributable to the operation of the business of any of Debtors in the ordinary course of business and in accordance with the Financing Agreements, unless otherwise authorized by the Court and approved in writing by the DIP Lender. Payment of IMASA's administrative claim could therefore constitute a default under the Financing Agreements and violate the provisions of the Final Financing Order.

*3 Debtors also argue that requiring immediate payment of § 503(b)(9) claims would expose Debtors to financial risk by adversely affecting Debtors' borrowing availability. Debtors assert that every creditor with a potential administrative claim could also request immediate allowance and payment of its claims. These payments could potentially affect Debtors ability to obtain the necessary cash to continue their day-to-day operations.

Debtors assert that there is no need to deviate from the general rule that administrative claims are not payable until the effective date of a confirmed plan of reorganization. Debtors contend that the statute does not require immediate payment and that it is silent on the issue of timing.

IV. Discussion

IMASA filed its Motion pursuant to § 503(b)(9), which provides:

After notice and a hearing, there shall be allowed administrative expenses ... including-(9) the value of any goods received by the debtor within 20 days before the date of commencement of a case under this title in which the goods have been sold to the debtor in the ordinary course of such debtor's business.

11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\). Section 503\(b\)\(9\) is newly created by the 2005 Act. Creditor claims of this type are now given a second priority pursuant to § 507(a)(2) of the Code. Section 503 does not specify a time for payment of these expenses but administrative expenses must be paid in full on the effective date of the plan as provided in § 1129(a)(9).^{FNS}

FN5. Section 1129(a)(9) mandates that a court shall confirm a plan of reorganization only if “... the plan provides that-

(A) with respect to a claim of a kind specified in section 507(a)(1) or 507(a)(2) of this title, on the effective date of the plan, the holder of such claim will receive on account of such claim cash equal to the allowed amount of such claim....”

The parties agree that when a claimant timely files a request for payment of an administrative expense under § 503\(a\), the timing of the payment of that administrative expense claim is left to the discretion of the Court. *4 In In re Garden Ridge Corp., this Court considered three factors in determining how to exercise its discretion on the timing of payment of an administrative expense claim, viz., (1) the prejudice to the debtors, (2) hardship to claimant, and (3) potential detriment to other creditors. In re Garden Ridge Corp., 323 B.R. at 143.

a. Prejudice to Debtors

During the course of the August 8th hearing, Debtors presented the testimony of Mr. Ronald F. Stengel, the Chief Restructuring Officer of Debtors. Mr. Stengel testified that: (1) the payment of § 503\(b\)\(9\) claims would adversely effect Debtors' borrowing ability under the DIP Financing Agreement because the aggregate § 503\(b\)\(9\) claims far exceed the company's availability to borrow, (2) that Debtors did not then have funds available to make payments for administrative claims, (3) Debtors' availability under the current financing arrangement was approximately $1.7 million and those funds were needed to provide for continuing operations, including current operating costs, payroll, purchase of inventory, etc., and (4) as of the hearing date there were nine other § 503\(b\)\(9\) claims seeking in the aggregate approximately $2.1 million in Debtors' bankruptcy cases, and others were expected to be filed in the future.^{FN6} Mr. Stengel opined that if Debtors had to pay the administrative claims immediately and in full, their reorganization efforts would collapse. Furthermore, Mr. Stengel testified that under Section 1.2 of the DIP Financing Order, Debtors are precluded from using any proceeds of any loans to pay claims or expenses that are not included in Debtors' budget without the consent of Wachovia. Mr. Stengel testified that he did not know whether or not Wachovia had given its consent to such expenditures and § 502\(b\)\(9\) administrative claims were not included in Debtors' budget. Therefore, the uncontroverted testimony is that Debtors would be prejudiced if the Court were to grant the motions for administrative expense claims.

FN6. The docket reflects that more than twenty creditors have filed motions seeking immediate payment of administrative claims.

b. Hardship to Claimant

IMASA claims that the prejudice or hardship to them from non-payment of the administrative expense claim is self-evident. IMASA contends that it has been singled out of a class of claimants that have been given priority under the Code because Debtors are denying payment to IMASA until confirmation of a plan. IMASA did not present testimony to support its claim of prejudice, instead relying on various documents filed in Debtors' bankruptcy cases of which this Court took judicial notice. At the hearing on the Motion, the Court asked IMASA what evidence was before the Court of hardship to IMASA of later payment. IMASA responded:

The only evidence I would submit, Your Honor, is sort of the self-evident hardship. That we're discriminating between five-o-between 503(b) claimants. That is to say, some of them are going to be paid now, and others are being deferred.

(Hearing Transcript, 26, August 8, 2006).

*5 The discrimination in payment to which IMASA refers is Debtors' payment of the pre-petition claims of certain critical vendors, which Debtors were entitled to make pursuant to the Order Authorizing, But Not Requiring the Payment of Prepetition Claims of Critical Trade Vendors (“Critical Vendor Order”) [D.I. 42]. The Critical Vendor Order enabled Debtors to obtain favorable trade terms from those vendors whose products Debtors needed to be able to reorganize. The decision on which vendors are critical to Debtors' reorganized was left to Debtors' business judgment.

(Cite as: Not Reported in B.R.)

Debtors argue however, that the case law in this area does not focus on the alleged discrimination between post-petition trade creditors and pre-petition creditors, rather, it focuses on the individual hardship to the individual claimant. Debtors point out that there is no evidence that immediate payment is necessary to keep IMASA in business. According to IMASA's web site, they produce in excess of 70 million pounds of aluminum each year with company sales in excess of $400 million.

END OF DOCUMENT

V. Decision

Debtors presented the testimony of Mr. Stengel which the Court found to be credible and decisively relevant to the issue of the relative hardships to the parties. In balancing these hardships, the Court finds that IMASA will suffer little prejudice or hardship if payment of its allowed administrative claim is deferred until after confirmation of a plan. Conversely, given the tenuous financial position of Debtors and the requirements of the DIP Financing Agreement, Debtors will suffer a substantial hardship if immediate payment on IMASA's § 503\(b\)\(9\) claim is allowed at this time in Debtors' reorganization efforts. Accordingly, the Court has determined that the proper exercise of discretion requires the Court to deny the motion. The prejudice to Debtors of requiring immediate payment far outweighs the prejudice, if any, to IMASA and Debtors' other creditors are benefitted by the ruling to the extent that by denying immediate payment, the Court preserves a later equitable distribution to other administrative claimants.

VI. Conclusion

Based upon the forgoing, the Motion of Industria Mexicana del Aluminio, S.A. de C.V. for Allowance and Immediate Payment of Its Section 503\(b\)\(9\) Administrative Expense Claim will be DENIED to the extent that the Motion seeks immediate payment of the administrative expense claim.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

I. INTRODUCTION

*1 In this chapter 11 case, I must decide whether a trade creditor who holds an allowed administrative expense by virtue of 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\), one of the new provisions added to the Bankruptcy Code by the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005 (“BAPCPA”),^{FN1} is entitled to immediate payment of the allowed expense.

FN1.Pub.L. No. 109-8, § 1227\(b\), 119 Stat. 23 \(2005\).

I hold that the timing of the payment of an administrative expense allowed under § 503\(b\)\(9\) is within the discretion of the bankruptcy court and that before compelling a chapter 11 debtor to pay the allowed administrative expense I may consider potential “prejudice to the debtor, hardship to the claimant, and ... detriment to other creditors.”In re Garden Ridge Corporation, 323 B.R. 136, 143 \(Bankr.D.N.J.2005\). I reject the creditor's argument that it is entitled to immediate payment as a matter of law because the Debtor in this case has been paying other administrative expenses, specifically, the Debtor's postpetition trade debt, which has been paid in the ordinary course pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363\(c\)\(1\).

I will hold an evidentiary hearing to permit the parties to develop the record further before I determine whether to compel payment of the allowed § 503\(b\)\(9\) or defer payment to a later stage in the case.

II. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Bookbinder's Restaurant Inc. commenced this bankruptcy case by filing a voluntary petition under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code on June 5, 2006. Since then, it has continued its business operations as a restaurant in Center City, Philadelphia.^{FN2} On June 26, 2006, the U.S. Trustee appointed a Committee of Unsecured Creditors (“the Committee”).

^{FN2}. The restaurant known as “Old Original Bookbinders” is well known in the region as a “landmark” restaurant. According to the information provided on the website of the Philadelphia Industrial Development Corporation, a not-for-profit corporation founded by the City of Philadelphia and the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce to promote economic development in the City, the restaurant operated continuously from 1865 to 2001. It reopened in February 2005. See <http://www.pidc-pa.org/newslist.asp> (link to “Historic Bookbinders Reopens With Updated Look”). This historical background plays no part in my decision, but may of general interest.

Five creditors have requested the allowance of an administrative expense under 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\). Each creditor has asserted that it supplied goods to the Debtor within twenty (20) days before the commencement of the case.

Section 503\(b\)\(9\) of the Bankruptcy Code provides for the allowance of an administrative expense for:

the value of any goods received by the debtor within 20 days before the date of commencement of a case under this title in which the goods have been sold to the debtor in the ordinary course of such debtor's business.

11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\).

(Cite as: Slip Copy)

The Debtor has agreed that all five creditors are entitled to the allowance of an administrative expense. The Debtor has reached an agreement with each creditor as to the amount of the allowed expense. The table below identifies the five creditors and sets forth the amount of the allowed administrative expense that I have approved:

Name of Creditor	Amount of Allowed Administrative Expense
Killian's Harvest Green	$5,914.90
U.S. Food Service, Inc.	$14,446.06
Fichera Foods, Inc.	$ 9,954.40
Blue Crab Plus, Sfd	$33,021.74
OceanPro Industries, Ltd.	$23,228.79
TOTAL	$86,565.89

The five creditors differ in their positions with respect to the timing of the payment of their respective allowed administrative expenses. One of the five creditors agreed that its expense should be paid when the Debtor pays other administrative expenses in the case.^{FN3} Three of the five creditors agreed to defer the actual payment of the allowed administrative expense for the time being, while reserving the right to request immediate payment at a later time.^{FN4} The fifth creditor, Blue Crab Plus Sfd (“Blue Crab”), insists that it is entitled to immediate payment of its allowed expense.

suggesting that if the Debtor was paying its utility bills on an ongoing basis, it was equally obliged to pay its § 503\(b\)\(9\) administrative expenses.

Second, Blue Crab argues that in any event, the Debtor can afford to make the payment. Blue Crab points to the Debtor's most recently MOR for October 2006 which, on its face, appears to state that the Debtor's cash on hand (as of October 31, 2006) exceeded $200,000. With that amount of cash available, Blue Crab argues that there is no reason to delay payment of its $33,021.74 allowed administrative expense.

FN3. U.S. Food Service, Inc.

FN4. Killian's Harvest Green, Fichera Foods, Inc. and OceanPro Industries, Ltd..

*2 Blue Crab makes two arguments in support of its request for immediate payment of its allowed § 503\(b\)\(9\) expense, see 11 U.S.C. § 503\(a\) (“[a]n entity may timely file a request for payment of an administrative expense”).

First, Blue Crab reasons as follows: an inherent part of the reorganization process for a business continuing to operate under chapter 11 is the payment of its postpetition operating expenses in the ordinary course; the Debtor's monthly operating reports (“MOR”) suggest that it is actually paying those expenses; § 503\(b\)\(9\) requires that a chapter 11 debtor treat “20 day” administrative expenses in the same manner as administrative expenses arising from the postpetition delivery of goods and services; it follows that Blue Crab's § 503\(b\)\(9\) allowed expense should be paid immediately.^{FN5}

In response, the Debtor contends that the timing of the payment of administrative expenses is within the discretion of the bankruptcy court and that the discretion should be exercised to permit the Debtor to continue paying its postpetition payables while deferring, for now, payment of the § 503\(b\)\(9\) allowed administrative expenses. As for its financial condition, the Debtor argues that the October 2006 MOR, while accurate, does not fully reflect certain operational realities which render the Debtor's financial condition less liquid than it might appear to be from a superficial review of its MOR's. The Debtor contends that requiring immediate payment of Blue Crab's administrative expense (with the possible consequence that other § 503\(b\)\(9\) creditors might then make the same demand for immediate payment) could impair its cash position to the point of jeopardizing its reorganization.^{FN6} To fully develop the record on that issue, the Debtor requests that another hearing be scheduled since the Debtor's witnesses on the subject were not available to testify at the December 13, 2006 hearing.

FN5. At the last hearing, Blue Crab was blunt,

(Cite as: Slip Copy)

FN6. In making this argument, the Debtor seems aware that it is “walking a thin line.” Its argument that there may be a serious financial impediment to the payment of an allowed administrative expense, implicates the feasibility of a successful reorganization. See 11 U.S.C. § 1129\(a\)\(9\)\(A\) and § 1129\(a\)\(11\). Of course, it is also possible that the financial issues alluded to by the Debtor are temporary and can be resolved by the time this case reaches confirmation.

At the conclusion of the December 13, 2006 hearing, I agreed to decide the merits of Blue Crab's first argument—that it has an unfettered right to immediate payment—because the resolution of that issue would determine whether a further hearing is required in this matter. After the December 13, 2006 hearing, Debtor and Blue Crab filed short submissions in support of their positions.

III. DISCUSSION

The allowance and treatment of administrative expenses is governed by 11 U.S.C. § 503. Section 503\(a\) provides that a party may request payment of an allowed expense. 11 U.S.C. § 503\(a\). Section 503\(b\) of the Bankruptcy Code addresses the allowance of administrative expenses.

*3 Prior to the effective date of BAPCPA, § 503(b) set forth six (6) categories of expenses allowable as administrative expenses. 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\). In the context of a chapter 11 case in which the debtor-in-possession continues its business operations, one might divide the six (6) categories into two types: (1) the operational expenses of a reorganizing debtor FN7 and (2) the expenses associated with the bankruptcy reorganization process itself. FN8

FN7. See 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(1\) (“actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate”).

FN8. See 11 U.S.C. §§ 503\(b\)\(2\)-\(6\) (compensation allowed to, inter alia, attorneys, other appointed professionals, members of official committees).

When a debtor-in-possession continues to operate its business during a chapter 11 case, the debtor may pay its expenses incurred in the ordinary course “without notice and hearing” as permitted by 11 U.S.C. § 363\(c\)\(1\). Typically, post-petition “trade debt” is incurred by an operating chapter 11 debtor in the ordinary course of business operations. Therefore, the formal administrative expense allowance process provided in § 503\(b\)\(1\), which includes “notice and hearing,” need not be invoked before a debtor may pay for goods and services received postpetition in the ordinary course of business.

BAPCPA added several additional categories of allowable administrative expenses. See 11 U.S.C. §§ 503\(b\)\(7\)-\(9\). One of the new categories is § 503\(b\)\(9\), colloquially referred to as “the 20 day” expense provision.

Section 503\(b\)\(9\) effectively converted what previously was a prepetition “claim” into an allowable administrative expense. FN9 This new status provides at least two benefits to holder of an administrative expense allowed under § 503\(b\)\(9\). First, the allowed expense must be paid in full as a condition of confirmation of a chapter 11 plan. See 11 U.S.C. § 1129\(a\)\(9\)\(A\) (requiring full payment of allowed administrative expenses FN10 on effective date of the plan as a condition of confirmation, unless the holder has agreed to different treatment). Previously, the same liability was treated as a prepetition claim that could be classified in a plan of reorganization, was subject to plan voting and was susceptible to being paid only partially in a plan confirmed over the creditor's dissent. See 11 U.S.C. § 1123\(a\)\(1\) (requiring that a plan designate classes of “claims”); id. § 1126\(c\) (defining “acceptance” of a plan by a class of claims). FN11 The second possible benefit to the creditor is that there is a potential for a more prompt payment of “the 20 day” liability. Since the liability is an administrative expense and not a prepetition claim, a chapter 11 debtor with adequate resources can pay the allowed administrative expense prior to confirmation.

FN9. Pre-BAPCPA, in certain circumstances, creditors who provided goods to the Debtor retained a right to reclaim the goods pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 546\(c\). Section 546\(c\) also was amended by BAPCPA. See Pub.L. No. 109-8, § 1227\(a\), 119 Stat. 23.

FN10. Section 1129\(a\)\(9\)\(A\) refers to payment of claims of a kind specified in 11 U.S.C. § 507\(a\)\(2\). Section 507\(a\)\(2\) refers to “administrative expenses allowed under section

(Cite as: Slip Copy)

503\(b\).”

FN11. Obviously, the more favorable treatment accorded to “the 20 day” liabilities has the potential of impacting adversely a debtor’s prospects for reorganization.

Neither § 503\(a\) nor § 503\(b\) provides explicit guidance to the bankruptcy court as to when an allowed administrative expenses should be paid. As one commentator has observed, there are at least four possible points in the life of a chapter 11 reorganization case when a § 503\(b\)\(9\) “20 day” expense may be payable: (1) immediately upon the commencement of the case; (2) immediately upon allowance; (3) prior to confirmation, in the discretion of the debtor; and (4) on the effective date of the plan, along with other allowed administrative expenses (such as allowed professional fees) pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1129\(a\)\(9\)\(A\).^{FN12} Ryan T. Routh, “Twenty-day Claims: The Anticipated and Unanticipated Consequences of Code § 503(b)(9),” Am. Bankr. Inst. J. 24, *78 -79 (November 25, 2006).

FN12. One court has referred to § 1129\(a\) as setting “the outside date by which administrative expenses must be paid in a Chapter 11 case.” In re The Korea Chosun Daily Times, 337 B.R. 773, 784 (Bankr.E.D.N.Y.2005)

*4 Prior to the enactment of 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\), it was black letter law that the question whether the bankruptcy estate should be ordered to pay an allowed administrative expense is within the bankruptcy court’s discretion. E.g., In re Colortex Industries, 19 F.3d 1371, 1384 (11th Cir.1994); In re HQ Global Holdings, Inc. . ., 282 B.R. 169, 173 (Bankr.D.Del.2002); In re Dieckhaus Stationers of King of Prussia, Inc., 73 B.R. 969, 972 (Bankr.E.D.Pa.1987). See also 4 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 503.3, at 503-13 (15th rev. ed.2006) (“[t]he time at which a particular administrative expense can or must be paid will vary from case to case depending upon the chapter under which the case was filed and the circumstances of the case”).

The considerations which guide a court’s decision whether to order immediate payment of an allowed administrative expense have been described in different ways. In Dieckhaus Stationers, the court stated its discretion should be exercised “with reference to other provisions and policies of the Code.” 73 B.R. at 972.

Other courts have been more specific. In HQ Global Holdings, the court stated that the court should consider “bankruptcy’s goal of an orderly and equal distribution among creditors and the need to prevent a race to a debtor’s assets.” 282 B.R. at 173. And, as stated above in the Introduction, in In re Garden Ridge Corporation, the court stated that it would consider “prejudice to the debtor, hardship to the claimant, and the potential detriment to other creditors.” 323 B.R. at 143.

It is against this legal backdrop that Congress enacted the new provision, § 503\(b\)\(9\), creating a new category of allowable administrative expenses. The question in this case is whether § 503\(b\)\(9\) was intended to alter existing practice that the timing of the payment of an allowed administrative expenses is left to the discretion of the bankruptcy court. I conclude that in enacting § 503\(b\)\(9\), Congress did not intend to alter existing practice under 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\).

The Supreme Court has instructed that the Bankruptcy Code should not be read “to erode past bankruptcy practice absent a clear indication that Congress intended such a departure.” Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare v. Davenport, 495 U.S. 552, 563, 110 S.Ct. 2126, 2133, 109 L.Ed.2d 588 (1990); accord, Cohen v. de la Cruz, 523 U.S. 213, 221-222, 118 S.Ct. 1212, 1218, 140 L.Ed.2d 341 (1998); Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors of Cybergenics Corp. ex rel. Cybergenics Corp. v. Chinery, 330 F.3d 548, 571 - 572 (3d Cir.2003) (en banc), cert. dismissed, 540 U.S. 1001-02, 124 S.Ct. 530, 157 L.Ed.2d 406 (2003).^{FN13} FN13. I am cognizant that this principle was enunciated in the context of construing the Bankruptcy Code in light of practice under the 1898 Bankruptcy Act, as amended. However, at this point in time, after twenty seven (27) years of practice under the Bankruptcy Code, I see no reason that it should not apply with equal force before the Code is construed to mandate the modification of practices that have become well established under existing caselaw. Certainly, there are provisions of BAPCPA which, without question, were intended to alter existing practice. See, e.g. 11 U.S.C. § 707\(b\).

There is nothing in the language of § 503\(b\)\(9\) to support Blue Crab’s suggestion that it is entitled to immediate payment of its allowed expense in derogation

of the accepted principle that the timing of payment of an allowed administrative expense is within the court's discretion. Section 503\(b\)\(9\) does nothing more than define a type of liability, previously treated as a prepetition claim, which is now accorded administrative expense status. The text of § 503\(b\)\(9\) neither states nor even implies that allowance of the expense encompasses an unqualified right to immediate payment. Nor does the text of the provision suggest that an administrative expense allowed under § 503\(b\)\(9\) is to be treated in a more favorable manner than any other allowed § 503\(b\) administrative expense.^{FN14}

^{FN14}. Also, I am unaware of the existence of any legislative history that supports Blue Crab's argument. See H.R. Rep. No. 109-31 (2005) at 146.

*5 Distilled to its essence, Blue Crab's argument is a kind of "equal protection" argument-i.e., since the Debtor is paying what Blue Crab posits are other administrative expenses (the liabilities incurred by the Debtor for goods and services and services received postpetition), Blue Crab's allowed § 503\(b\)\(9\) administrative expense must also be paid. I am not convinced by this argument for three reasons.

First, Blue Crab has presented no authority supporting the proposition that a holder of an administrative expense allowed under § 503\(b\) has an unqualified legal entitlement to be paid at the same time as post-petition creditors who are being paid in the ordinary course pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363\(c\)\(1\). Indeed, such a holding would be contrary to the cases discussed above which treat the subject of actual payment of allowed administrative expenses as a discretionary matter for the court. And, as I have previously observed, there is nothing in the text of § 503\(b\)\(9\) or the legislative history which suggests that a § 503\(b\)\(9\) allowed administrative expense is entitled to more favorable treatment than other allowed administrative expenses so as to justify an exception to the general rule. That said, there may be circumstances in which it would be inequitable or inappropriate to permit a debtor to pay certain administrative expenses but not others. In such a case, the court can order the bankruptcy estate representative to pay the unpaid allowed administrative expense. It is possible that this case is such a case. However, before I can make that determination, a hearing is necessary so that the Debtor's reasons for the disparate treatment can be aired.

Second, Blue Crab's argument overlooks the fact that the Debtor's payments to postpetition trade creditors are being made pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363\(c\)\(1\), not 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(1\). In other words, the expenses are being paid without the formality of court allowance under § 503\(b\). I recognize that if the Debtor were not actually paying its post-petition payables in the ordinary course, those same liabilities might also be allowable under § 503\(b\)\(1\). However, if unpaid postpetition creditors invoke their rights under § 503\(a\) and \(b\), the same issues would be presented as are raised by Blue Crab's request for payment: What are the Debtor's reasons for not paying the expense? Are there sufficient funds in the estate to make the payment? What effect would payment have on the Debtor, the other creditors and prospects for a successful conclusion to the bankruptcy case? What impact would non-payment have on the creditor? These are the issues that must be considered when any holder of a § 503\(b\) allowed administrative expense seeks to compel payment from the bankruptcy estate. Thus, in a technical sense, Blue Crab's § 503\(b\)\(9\) administrative expense is being treated the same as any unpaid, allowed § 503\(b\) administrative expense. There is no disparate treatment between different types of § 503\(b\) expenses. To the extent there is different treatment, it is between administrative expenses allowed under § 503\(b\) and post-petition liabilities being paid pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363\(c\)\(1\). Whether this discrimination is justified remains to be determined.

*6 Finally, I find support for my rejection of Blue Crab's argument by comparing 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\) to 11 U.S.C. § 365\(d\)\(3\), a Code provision that addresses more directly than § 503\(b\)\(9\) the obligation of the bankruptcy estate to pay a certain type of postpetition obligation. Section 365\(d\)\(3\) provides, in pertinent part, that

[t]he trustee shall timely perform all the obligations of the debtor, except those specified in section 365\(b\)\(2\), arising from and after the order for relief under any unexpired lease of nonresidential real property, until such lease is assumed or rejected notwithstanding section 503\(b\)\(1\) of this title.

11 U.S.C. § 365\(d\)\(3\). Section 365\(d\)\(3\) gives the court discretion to extend the "time for performance" of any obligation arising within the first 60 days after the order for relief, but restricts the exercise of that discretion by providing that “the time for performance shall not be extended beyond such 60-day period.”Id.

Section 365\(d\)\(3\) was added to the Bankruptcy Code by the Bankruptcy Amendments and Federal Judgeship Act of 1984, Pub.L. No. 98-353, 98 Stat. 333 \(1984\). As the court stated in Dieckhaus, the effect of the addition of this provision to the Code was to render rent payments “falling due during the sixty day period [as] an allowable administrative expense without the necessity of notice and hearing, as is ordinarily required by section 503\(b\).”⁷³ B.R. at 972; accord, In re Granada, Inc., 88 B.R. 369, 371 \(Bankr.D.Utah 1988\). Further, the enactment of § 365\(d\)\(3\) was accompanied by explicit “legislative history indicating that, due to the unique demands made by debtors upon their landlords, landlords are entitled to assurance that rent will be timely paid from the time that an order for relief is entered until a lease is assumed or rejected.”In re Orient River Investments, Inc., 112 B.R. 126, 133 (Bankr.E.D.Pa.1990).

Considering the text of § 365\(d\)\(3\) and its legislative history, it is not surprising that some courts have held that landlords have a right to immediate payment for rent obligations within the purview of the provision. However, even in the face of the statutory text and accompanying legislative history, which can be read easily to require the immediate payment of § 365\(d\)\(3\) rent, some courts have concluded that there are circumstances in which the court may exercise its discretion to withhold immediate payment to a § 365\(d\)\(3\) landlord. In particular, some courts have held that a landlord asserting a right to payment under § 365\(d\)\(3\) will not be paid unless the court is satisfied that the estate is administratively solvent.^{FN15} See In re Orient River Investments, Inc., 112 B.R. at 132-34 (discussing the caselaw); see also In re Pudgie's Dev. of N.Y., 223 B.R. 421, 426-427 (Bankr.S.D.N.Y.1998) (same).

^{FN15} Within the latter line of cases, the courts have differed as to whether the burden of showing solvency is on the landlord or whether the burden of establishing insolvency is on the trustee. In re Orient River Investments, Inc., 112 B.R. at 132-34

I refer to § 365\(d\)\(3\) and the caselaw thereunder without taking a position as to the proper construction of that section. My purpose is to contrast § 365\(d\)\(3\) with § 503\(b\)\(9\). Based on its text and the sparse legislative history, the case for construing § 503\(b\)\(9\) as deviating from the accepted principle that the bankruptcy court has discretion concerning the timing of the payment of an allowed administrative expense is much weaker than such an argument under § 365\(d\)\(3\). Given the division in the caselaw under § 365\(d\)\(3\), had Congress intended to provide § 503\(b\)\(9\) claimants with some type of enhanced right to payment after allowance of the expense, I am convinced that it would have made its intent express in the statute and it has not done so.

*7 For all of these reasons, I reject Blue Crab's argument that it is entitled to immediate payment of its § 503\(b\)\(9\) administrative expense without a further hearing. Given the opposition of the Debtor and the Creditors' Committee to Blue Crab's request for immediate payment, I will hold the evidentiary hearing requested by the Debtor to permit the parties to make an evidentiary record to guide the exercise of my discretion.^{FN16}

^{FN16} It is unnecessary for me to determine at this time which party has the burden of proof on the issue of immediate payment when the holder of an administrative expense allowed under § 503\(b\)\(9\) seeks to compel payment from the bankruptcy estate.

ORDER

AND NOW, upon consideration of the Motion of Blue Crab Plus Sfd for Immediate Payment of Administrative Expense Claim Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 503\(b\)\(9\) (“the Motion”), the response thereto of the Debtor and the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and for the reasons set forth in the accompanying Memorandum Opinion, it is hereby ORDERED that an evidentiary hearing on the Motion is scheduled for January 17, 2007, at 11 a.m., in Bankruptcy Courtroom No. 1, U.S. Courthouse, 900 Market Street, 2d Floor, Philadelphia, PA 19107.
