In a world of increasing social consciousness, today’s leading brands strive to satisfy their customers’ desires for ethical products. In order to create a 100% traceable product, Republic Metals’ Peace of Mined™ process ensures that there are no leftovers in the circuit—metal originating from other sources. This means that every material enters and exits the refining circuit using a single-batch refining technology to give brand owners the ability to choose the exact origin of their responsibly sourced material.

The Peace of Mined™ process maintains a direct link all the way to the point of origin. The Peace of Mined™ process provides complete control of the supply chain. Source from an extensive list of mining names to ensure complete control of the supply chain. Source from an extensive list of mining names to ensure that there is no co-mingling with other materials at any point in the process. The Peace of Mined™ process was developed in order to meet the demands of customers who require transparency at every stage of the process. The Peace of Mined™ process is the only process to go through batch refining to create a product that is 100% traceable. Peace of Mined™...
